PIONEER WASHER.
JAMES BRUSIE,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.
THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action. Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting, with proper care, for ten years. The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing. It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes.
It having a light cover, the steam thus assists materially in cleaning the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds.
This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.
It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it.
THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now unsold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon.

LETTER FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, August 17, 1867.

A REVIEW.

For centuries the great wall of China enclosed the Celestial Empire; it prevented the escape of its inhabitants, and was a defence against the incursions of war-like tribes, as well as those disposed to trade or traffic. The same manners, customs and ideas, were handed down from generation to generation, and servile inertness has set its everlasting seal upon that people. From the efforts of certain combinations together with its peculiar location, Oregon has been almost as much isolated from the world—walled in by mountains and girdled by the sea—for the past seventeen years, as though it were within the domain of Confucius. The steamship Montana for a short time broke in upon your seclusion and gave your people a glimpse of the outside world, and those who visited the land "where rolls the Oregon," heard other sounds "save its own dashings." A continuation of quick intercourse and cheap fare, was expected by the majority of people interested in your State, as well as by those living near your borders.

The sudden manner in which Mr. James Patton sold out his "Anchor Line" and those who had supported him, fell less heavy from the reliance placed in Messrs. Ladd & Co., but the unsuspected weakening of that firm left the knubus of isolation the more heavy upon hills, valleys, and streams. The merchants of this city had demanded that the great trade of the upper regions of Oregon, Idaho and Montana, should find its way to this city through Portland, thereby benefiting your State, as well as this great depot of Western commerce. That trade was reached and brought here instead of going to St. Louis and our merchants as well as yours, reaped a harvest. The modus operandi whereby the steamers were sold, we may relate some day for the benefit of those who were disappointed in their continuance. We will here remark that Messrs. Aldrich, Merrill & Co., as well as Capt. John R. Kelly, had no hand in its consummation, and opposed the sale as far as lay in their power.

The steamship Oregonian, as you are aware, has been turned over to that stock-speculating concern, the "Nicaragua Line," and in the fullness of their liberalism, the Moses Taylor is promised by Dame Grundy as an opposition in the Oregonian's place. Two reliable parties are in the East making arrangements for good and substantial steamships to ply between this city and Portland. That the present rates of fare are exhorbitant, is acknowledged by all, and that extreme low rates are injurious to your merchants, is also seen. But as the old rates are demanded and thereby invite opposition, why of the two extremes an opposition line is preferable. Better than either, we hear very encouraging reports in regard to a railroad. Its construction is no doubt settled upon, and why not? Railroads are a necessity of the age; as much so as school houses. The ties of a railroad are ties of brotherhood, and bind one State with another. That place in Georgia where they had "been at war with the United States for thirty years," never heard of a railroad other than the one folks traveled over when they "rode a foller on a rail!" A liberal subscription for a railroad, by your people, will pay them two-fold interest. The first in the increased price of land, and the other in dividends from the earnings of the road.

INSURANCE AND ASSURANCE.

There is an unusual energy exhibited to insure, which has greatly increased facial assurance, and that, too, of the most brazen character. The Life Insurance local agents (runners) press, coax, wheedle, scare, and importune everybody, young and old, male and female, with a pertinacity unequalled in any other business. We think that most any of these Life Insurance agents could be induced to insure a ruddy looking case of quick consumption, and that on accidental policy, could be procured by a horse-tamer, a house broker, or a manufacturer of nitro-glycerine. Fire insurance solicitors (runners) of certain companies, go from door to door along a street, take the names of those insured, make out a policy, upon furniture and wearing apparel, for about what they think proper, according to the looks of the house, and inhabitants thereof, leave the policy with the wife, and importune the husband for the price of the premium. An acquaintance of mine has a policy, the premium receipted for upon the face of the policy, for six hundred dollars, and he offered us his whole stock for one hundred and fifty dollars, leaving a speculative margin of four hundred and fifty dollars for an insurer's speculator. We declined the offer, and he excused himself by saying, he "thought we were a Democrat." An incendiary is looked upon by insurance agents with considerable favor, as that kind of persons add largely to the insurance business by his exploits. If the interior of this and other States, are as energetically combined as this city is, to procure insurances, every person in the land will have a "policy," as well as Mr. President Johnson.

INTERNATIONAL COMMERCE.

We, with thousands of others, visited the brand new steamship Great Republic, of monster proportions, just imported by the Pacific Mail Line and intended for the China trade. "To sum up her case," as a lawyer says when he speaks of a feminine, on closing the subject, she is the magnum bonum, multum imparvo, E pluribus unum of steamships on this coast.

While at the Pacific Mail Line wharf, we cast about for an item for the OREGONIAN. Here it is: A vast variety of packages of merchandize lay scattered about in seeming disorder to our unpractised eyes. Our insinuating smile and nod was answered by Mr. C. D. Van Nostrand, the chief freight clerk of the company, and we were enlightened. "Each parcel of freight," having the same marks are placed together. Here are packages for Mexico, Central and South America, New Zealand and Australia; those yonder are for Japan and China, and those packages of silks, choice teas and lacquer-ware are from those places; that flour yonder, from Oregon, goes to New York with the California brand; that Oregon wool and leather also goes to New York; those packages go to England, and these to France; these trunks, owned by Joseph Hess, who has done all the bullion hauling since '60, contains more bullion than that which Butler King had so carefully guarded when he moved the 'Frisco Custom House a few days ago, 'with his ri-tu-di-na-di-us;' this bullion came from every section of the Pacific coast, and is now going to every portion of the globe; here is a silver brick going to that city of the Sybarites read about in the last Atlantic; this line of packages has just landed from New York; these packages are for the north'ard—Elbridge G. Paine, Olympia; D. & B., Portland; Hugh L. McNary, Salem; with much other goods for the North Pole, Alaska. We subsided and observed on in silence the three steam leviathans moored to the dock, from which had been poured these tons of international goods.

LADY EQUESTRIENNES AND PEDAL EXERCISE.

Occasionally a lady is seen on horseback wending her way, in company with an escort, towards the open country. The sight is so rare that it attracts as much attention as did the French procession on the 15th inst., who paraded and had a dinner and ball in honor of the fete Napoleon. Lady equestriennes were once very frequently seen in our streets, but as the demi monde quickly adopt any public fashion that attracts attention, the more respectable and virtuous portion of the community has left it to their more brazen sisters, except in rare instances. Our ladies, however, perambulate a good deal in the retired portions of the city, particularly along the streets blooming with neat door yards, fragrant with with flowers. It is a pleasant sight on quiet afternoons to see mothers in neat walking dresses accompanied by their troop of children—every lady here has a troop of them—laughing, chatting and romping as they go, in earnest glee.

The flaunting of fashions has modified very much on Montgomery street. Whether it is owing to a decline in stocks or a desire for economy, we have not yet learned.

POLITICAL.

Your excellent and able Governor, Woods, has done great service to the Union cause in this State, and his efforts will be crowned with success. The Democrats of this city have nominated some men thought to be Union men until now. Their present adhesion stamps them as of those not to be trusted. The nomination of a "Sydney man" for Mayor of this city on their ticket, has scared every honest man in the community and will aid greatly to defeat them. I will give this man the credit of having been an honest Supervisor, but it would not do to make him Mayor, and he will not be. George C. Gorham's majority in this State will be about five thousand. A concentrated effort of the "Democrats" has been made to carry the State, and that has roused the slumbering legions, and like the sturdy shepherds of the Alps, the Sierra Nevadans will beat back the foes of Liberty.

EASY CHAIR MENTION.

Sanborn's "Long Room" in the new Merchant's Exchange, is only a stock board, and not a drinking place, as some supposed, however much of good things there may be to take. Our Board of Supervisors do some serious legislation and we hope that no city or town will take them for an example, unless they want to let somebody make money.

Mr. Orin Joynt of Portland will receive a notice of his election to a membership in the Pioneer Society, for we voted for his admission. Other Pioneers are invited.

The theatres have been doing well. A round of all sorts have been presented. Maguire's Opera House has taken the lead, with Adams as star, supported by Mrs. Suphie Edwin and the skopist, Sally Hinkley. At the Academy of Music the opera troupe have produced L'Africaine during this season. A series of benefits for the members of the troupe, and the opera closes for a resting spell.

The Madrigal Society give a series of concerts at Platt's Hall, under the leadership of Mr. Leach, who is no "sucker."

The Bay View and Potrero Railroad is completed and was ceremoniously opened on Thursday, the 15th. A sudden increase of the price of land in that vicinity is the result. The increase of this city is wonderful. It is jumping a block at a time, and that is a small city of itself.

The number of registered voters thus far is hard on to 21,000 and will probably reach 23,000 before election day. The vote of the city will be about 19,500, ten thousand of whom will vote for Gorham.

The America arrived yesterday with a small load of cabin passengers, but a large load of steerage "folks" from New York, via Nicaragua.

A couple of well known Oregonians who stood in need of friends in a very serious matter, unexpectedly met with their wishes in Messrs. Adams and Chase, of the Adams House, who not only saved the character of the men, but their money as well. Such unsolicited friendship is worthy of mention. Yours,

TRANQUELINE.

Hudson's Bay Company's Claims against the United States.

A correspondent sends us the following communication:

I have carefully reviewed all the testimony in this case on both sides up to May 1st, 1867. On the 12th of April, the counsel on the part of the United States, having already spent twenty-five days in cross examining Chief Factor McTavish, so as to get at the real expenditures of the Hudson's Bay Company and arrive at a just conclusion, as to the amount due them—Mr. McTavish having frequently referred to accounts and statements which he averred could be found on the various books of the Company—gave notice to the counsel of the Company in the following language:

"The counsel for the United States require of Mr. McTavish, who, as appears from his evidence, is a Chief Factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, and its agent in the prosecution of the claim, to produce here, for examination by the United States or their counsel, all accounts, account books, and letter books of said company, together with the regulations under which their books were kept, and the various forms of contracts and warrants of the company, all of which books, rules, and forms contain evidence pertinent to the issue in this case, as appears from the cross-examination of Mr. McTavish, and suspends the further cross-examination of this witness until he shall produce such books, accounts, rules and forms."

On the first of May Mr. McTavish's examination was resumed.

1st, 932.—Will you please produce here for examination by the United States or their counsel, all accounts, account books, and letter books of the Hudson's Bay Company which were kept at the various posts of that company south of the 49th parallel of north latitude during their occupation by the company, together with the regulations under which their books were kept, and the regular forms of contracts with the company's servants."

Ans.—"I cannot say whether I will produce them or not."

(The above question was objected to as incompetent, and as asking the witness not as to what he knows of the subject, but as to what his future course of action will be, over which, as witness, he can have no control.)

During the examination of Mr. McTavish it was evident that he was the main prosecuting witness and considerably interested in the results of the claim, or suit.

It would doubtless be interesting to most of your readers to see a review of the testimony, or at least a summary of the evidence presented on both sides in this case. There are now printed about one thousand pages of documents and depositions. That relating particularly to the Hudson Bay Company comprises about two-thirds of the whole amount. The balance relates more particularly to the Puget Sound Agricultural Company's claim. This claim, as stated in a communication that appeared in your paper some time since, the company have not been able by any testimony yet presented to separate from that of the Hudson Bay Company: so that there is no prospect of their receiving one dollar on that account. There have been examined on the part of the Puget Sound Company, to prove its separate existence from the Hudson Bay Company, thirty witnesses: on the part of the United States, twenty-one. On the part of Hudson Bay Company's claim as separate from the Puget Sound Company, nineteen witnesses; on the part of the United States, thirty. On both sides not far from forty-five witnesses have been called upon the stand to testify in this important case. The company in London have been requested to furnish evidence of the separate organization or independent existence of the two companies; and with all this evidence produced, nothing definite or certain is shown, except that that concern was gotten up to deceive the English people and rob the American Government, and to counteract and oppose the American settlement of this country.

As a looker on and an observer of events in this country, I must confess my astonishment at the ignorance, perverseness and stupidity of men whom I have ever heretofore regarded as honorable and truthful.

From the testimony before me of the twenty odd English witnesses, it really appears as though they felt that all they had to do was to ask their pay and our Government would give it to them; or in other words they, as Englishmen and British subjects, are prepared to compel the payment of any sum they demand.

There are many interesting developments brought out in this case relative to the early history of this country, which renders the depositions in the case, though voluminous and tedious in the main, yet interesting to the close and careful student of our history.

If time and opportunity is given, I will review this whole testimony as a part of the history of this country, and in so doing I will endeavor to correct an erroneous impression that will result from the testimony as now before us.

INVESTIGATOR.

GEN. SICKLES' EQUIPAGE.—The New York Herald says: "Gen. Sickles has thanked Bingham for his handsome reply to Eldridge, adding: 'You may relieve his anxiety with the consoling information that my equipage has not cost him nor any of his friends anything, said equipage being the cherished gift of my comrades of the Third Army Corps.' If Eldridge still desires to continue his investigations of the equipage question, he might visit Newport and see the Democratic party, in the person of the Chairman of its Executive Committee, roll by in coach and four. Or in our Park he might daily see Revenue Collectors and whisky distillers, whose frauds on the Government have not been exposed in Congress, roll by in equally gorgeous style."

Military Organization of Alaska.

General Halleck has issued the following General Order creating the Military District of Alaska, United States Army:

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIV. OF THE PACIFIC,
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Aug. 12, 1867.
[Special Orders, No. 141.]

I—In compliance with instructions from the General-in-Chief, the Territory recently ceded by Russia to the United States will constitute a Military District, and will be attached to the Department of California. It will be known as Military District of Alaska. Headquarters at Sitka. A District Commander will be assigned hereafter.

Purity of Elections.

The defeated party in Washington Territory are not yet done whining about the result of the June election, and their organ at Olympia publishes an article a column in length designed to show that the "Radicals" triumphed by fraudulent means. A complaint of this sort is a very common resource for a defeated party, but we believe the Copperheads, when defeated, howl more persistently about "fraud" than any other party that ever was known. In this State last year they declared with a united voice that the election was carried against them by fraudulent means; yet they refused to unite with the Republicans in the Legislature to enact a law which would have assured the purity of all future elections. It is their habit everywhere to pretend that the people are cheated out of a fair expression of their will at the ballot box, but they vehemently oppose every effort to prevent the evils of which they complain. We know of no State or Territory where the Republicans would not be willing to accept a Registry Law, nor do we know of any State or Territory where the Democrats would not oppose such a measure. California has a law which renders it certain that future elections will be conducted with perfect fairness, but the Democrats in their State platform have declared for its repeal. Their conduct everywhere in relation to this subject affords positive proof that their charges of corruption against their opponents are without foundation, and that they are conscious of the fact that the fraudulent voting is generally in their favor.

In this country we have a large body of voters whose names are unknown; whose residence, if they have any, no man can tell; and who may easily flit from place to place, and even vote in several places, in the same election. In countries where the suffrage is qualified, the tax list may furnish a register, and it is easy thereby to ascertain who are lawful voters; but where suffrage is unlimited, there is no way to guard against frauds or to protect actual voters in their rights except by a registry law.

Regularly before our elections there are apprehensions among the Republicans of schemes of fraud on the part of their opponents to carry the State. Regularly after the elections the Democrats attribute their defeat to the fraudulent practices of the Republicans. We know that on one side these apprehensions are real; now if the other side is sincere in its charges, why cannot it join in the next Legislature to apply a remedy? Is it necessary that our election system should continue in this peril? If there were no way to correct it, would not this fact virtually condemn popular government? And again, is it to be supposed that any person or party would oppose the application of a remedy unless they desired to help by fraud their chances for carrying elections? These, certainly, are considerations not unworthy of attention. We want our political opponents to come forward and assist in introducing this reform, or cease charging us with fraudulent practices in outvoting them.

The experience of other States points out a way whereby we can secure a good registry law, free from the errors and difficulties which have sometimes attended efforts to put the system into operation. Any defects that may be discovered can be easily amended. In this way a law can be framed which will be adapted to the situation and wants of our people. There should be some security that honest votes shall decide the election; and the only way to obtain this security, especially where contests are at all close, is to provide such a guarantee as we have herein indicated, and which several other States have adopted.

Mr. Ben Hayden, of Polk county, who supposes himself the identical "Ben. Hayden" referred to by a correspondent of the OREGONIAN in Salem county, writes to us, denying that he ever addressed a letter to a Democrat of Union or any other county requesting that voters be sent to carry Polk at the next election. We give Mr. Hayden the benefit of his denial, but decline to publish in full the very Democratic letter he sends us. We are not surprised that the denial is made, for it was no expectation that the truth of the statement would be admitted.

The Radical negroes in Tennessee carry banners with mottoes that are very suggestive. One displayed at Franklin the other day was inscribed "Remember Fort Pillow when you go to the polls," and another was, "The Radicals build rich men's houses and the Conservatives burn them."

How Soldiers Vote.

The Pacific Army and Navy Chronicle, published at San Francisco, while disclaiming any desire or intention of entering into the discussion of political subjects, feels that it is its duty to exert its influence to secure the election of those who have sustained the principles for which the soldiers have fought; and with this view it publishes the following article:

The duties of good citizen and good soldier cooperate for the attainment of the greatest good to the greatest number. The election, about to be held in California, is on many accounts the most important which ever demanded the suffrages of our people. Its result must produce a moral as well as a veritable effect for good or for evil. Should the "Democracy" triumph; should our great and growing State be placed under the iron heels of our late enemies; should California declare to the whole world that she preferred Secessionism to Unionism by electing the advocates of secession; should she cast such a stigma over the graves of our martyred soldiers as to virtually adopt the tenets of their slayers, then will they have died in vain; then will our State stand before loyalty and patriotism a guilty thing, an outcast from the National Congress, a base ingrate, a political renegade. Soldiers care not whether the enemy advances boldly in battle array, or whether he seeks the covert of disguise. To the former he accords a soldier's respect and homage; the latter he hangs as a spy and traitor. In either case they are alike enemies. Our honorably discharged soldiers perceive the approach of both, and have prepared for them a suitable reception. Over 17,000 soldier voters in this State have determined to renew at the ballot box the same conflict which called them to the field. They are neither daunted by the bold front of the "Democratic" party, nor by the sneaking and traitorous advances of the self-constituted purifiers claiming to be Republicans. In no possible contingency will they imperil the cause of Unionism, by voting a ticket whose tendency is to weaken and destroy its political unity and effectiveness. In no case will they belie their own record by assisting a cause which contemplates disorganization in the Union party, and possible victory to their bitterest enemies. Let no enemy to the regular Union ticket deceive himself with the hope that an honorably discharged soldier will cast any other than a regular Union ballot at the coming election. Let no one suppose that their patriotism and fervent love of the cause for which they endured five years of sanguinary conflict, or unspeakable hardships and suffering, have died out or grown weaker with the cessation of the drum beat or the bugle call. They are banded, organized and determined. They will vote in solid column. They will again come to the rescue, and again save our State from the grasp of the enemy as they did in 1861, when it was about to be handed over to the rebel hordes by a rebel General, then in command of the Pacific Department. Seventeen thousand soldier voters, not present at the last gubernatorial election, and now voting together for the regular Union ticket, are quite sufficient to neutralize the disloyal efforts of self-styled purifiers, and rout their more honorable and declared enemy. The punishment of spies and traitors is swift, and their detection sure.

RECREATIONS OF A PHILOSOPHER.—Prof. Doremous once placed a linen handkerchief in the explosive condition of gun cotton, and threw it into the wash. Bridget washed, dried and sprinkled it ready for ironing, without a suspicion of its character. The moment she placed the hot iron upon it, the handkerchief "vanished into thin air," nearly frightening the poor girl out of her senses. Had this occurred an age ago, the Professor would have passed for a "limb of Satan."

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 21.—The important suit of the Western Pacific Steamship Company vs. Williams & Guion, which was first tried in the Liverpool Court of Assize, resulted in a judgment for plaintiff with damages awarded at $73,000. This suit grew out of the nitro glycerine explosion at Aspinwall, April 3d, 1866, by which the steamship European then belonging to the plaintiffs was totally destroyed while laying at the above named port. The explosion also resulted in a loss of sixty lives. The owners of several buildings on shore, which were demolished, put in claims for a considerable amount additional. The Underwriters declined to make good the losses, and threw the responsibility on the owners of the European, upon the ground that they were culpable in carrying explosive matter below decks. Plaintiffs in turn brought suit against Williams & Guion, shippers of the nitro-glycerine, and claimed that they were guilty in shipping the article under the name of gloneine oil, a substance unknown to chemists or to commerce; to which defendants replied that they had acted in the matter only as forwarders, and that the explosive matter came to them from a Hamburg house, with instructions to forward it to Bandeau & Nelson. Defendants claim that they were themselves deceived by the descriptive title, gloneine oil, on the manifest, and had no knowledge or suspicion of the character of the freight which thus passed through their hands in the usual course of business. The judgment rendered is understood to definitely settle the fact that plaintiffs are entitled to damages and cannot recover losses from underwriters. But the question whether defendants are ultimately liable, or whether plaintiffs must look to the original shippers at Hamburg, goes to a higher tribunal for argument and decision.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Parliament was prorogued to-day, the Queen not being present. By commission the Queen declares that there is no longer any grounds for apprehensions of a war in Europe. The treasonable conspiracies in Ireland have proved futile, and the attempt at revolt has been suppressed almost without bloodshed. By the valor of the troops, the vigilance and activity of the police, and the general loyalty of the people, the law has been vindicated without the sacrifice of human life The speech refers with satisfaction to the new postal treaty with the United States, and in conclusion congratulates Parliament and the country on the completion of the Canadian union, the passage of the reform bill, and the adoption of other measures beneficial to the united kingdom.

It is reported from Madrid that the revolt in Catalonia has failed, and the authority of the Government is rapidly being re-established in the insurrectionary district

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come in San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

J. Ross Browne.—We had the pleasure of meeting for a few minutes, yesterday, this famous humorist who made a trip to Washoe some years ago, and set the world to laughing, through Harper at how he went, why he went, what he saw, what he did, what he didn't and how he got out of it. He has on butter clothes now than those seen in the illustrations of that trip, but otherwise it is possible enough to discover him as the original from which some of the pictures were sketched. Ross Browne's artist, however, cheated the world some by throwing into these sketches the very expression which the laughing poet of the world would naturally conceive to belong to the writer of such humor. Really, his person and facial expression are as unlike his writings as could be well imagined. Who would think to see in J. Ross Browne, a small, quiet man, reserved in manner, and brief and dry in speech as Grandgrind himself when riding his own peculiar hobby? But, there, we saw Browne when, like Dragbrid, he was in search of "facts;" and it may be that we did not see him in his own, natural, proper self. It is certain we only saw the exterior man. The witty joker, the rollicking, fun making Browne was as completely enveloped and out of sight as if he had been locked up in his own black carpet sack. We felt disappointed and as though Browne had done us an injury. What right has a man to write himself the impersonation of a joke and then present himself to the corporeal vision and hearing as simply a quiet, hard shell fact! That's what we want to know. Browne does wrong to go about the world as he is doing now, spoiling people's ideal Browne. He should always go by proxy, through print. If he continues to travel, with that matter-of-fact countenance of his, he will, some of these days, find it difficult to convince people that he, J. Ross Browne, staistician for the United States, ever wrote the laughter-provoking things attributed to him, or that he ever inspired a caricature picture of Ho on the frontier. For the sake of your p sterity, J. R. B., (if you have got any,) abjure "facts," go back to your old role, lichis the world, and so shall you become immortal, for, when your death shall be announced everybody will laugh at it, and disbelieve it and say "that's another of J. Ross Browne's jokes." The business upon which Mr. Browne visits us, is on behalf of the United States—to collect statistics and information (there is a wide difference between the two,) in relation to the resources of the Pacific States and territories, and, particularly, as to the mining resources. We have not a resource of that specific kind here; but we have a few of other descriptions, and to all such, Mr. Browne is welcome, to use, but not to take away. If anybody knows of a resource Mr. Browne ought to be informed of it. It will make his labors lighter. We speak thus for Mr Browne on account of a fellow-feeling He is, in one respect, one of our kind—he is hunting for items, and is, as it were, a local reporter for Uncle Sam's great periodical, Patent Office Reports. Fasthim round and treat him well.

Proceedings in Relation to the Manhattanite.—Yesterday afternoon, the following proceedings were had before Judge Shattuck, sitting at chambers:

A. Rosenblatt vs. J. J. Hoffman; petition for mandamus to compel said Hoffman as City Recorder to deliver process issued out of Recorder's Court, to A. Rosenblatt as Marshal of the city; defendant filed his answer and the hearing was continued to this morning at 9 o'clock. Friedenrich and J. G. Chapman for plaintiff, and Mitchell for defendant.

City of Portland vs H. L. Hoyt; petition for mandamus to compel said Hoyt to deliver up to his successor in the office of Marshal, A. Rosenblatt, the books, papers and other property of the city in his hands; motion by defendant's counsel to require plaintiff to make complaint more specific, sustained. Defendant demurred to the complaint; demurrer argued by counsel and overruled by the court. Defendant filed his answer, when plaintiff filed motion to strike out part of answer; motion pending when court adjourned. Friedenrich, City Attorney, and J. G. Chapman for the city, and Hill and Stout for defendant.

Resolutions of Condolence.—At a meeting of Columbia Lodge No. 56, I. O. of G. T., held on the evening of August 15th, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst by death, our beloved brother J. A. Belote, therefore

Resolved, That in his death we have lost a worthy and efficient member.

Resolved, That we as a Lodge, tender our sympathies to the family in this their great affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of the resolutions be furnished the family and also a copy to the Pacific Christian Advocate, Oregon Herald and the Oregonian for publication.

Uniform Caps for Pioneer B. B. Club.—Mr. C. H. Mansseaffer, received by the last steamer and opened yesterday, a dozen uniform caps for the Pioneer B. B Club, manufactured by order, at the manufactering house of the Mansseaffers in San Francisco. The caps are decidedly gay in appearance, the body being bright scarlet, with a visor, white on the upper side, and green beneath. On the top of the crown is a silver colored star. The caps are very light and comfortable. The Pioneers, when they turn out in this regalia will present a rather nouvee appearance above the ears and eyes.

I. O. of G. T.—Installation.—Thursday evening August 1st, Isaac Reminton, Lodge Deputy, installed the following officers for Columbia Lodge No. 56, I. O of G. T., to serve the term ending November 1st: J. A. Belote, W. C. T.; Mrs. Ann E. Powell, W. V. T.; S. E. Paddock, W. S.; Miss Rosetta Barker, W. A. S.; Wm Legg, W. F. S.; Miss O. Legg, W. C.; S. F. Scott, W. M.; Miss Martha Whitaker, W. D. M.; Miss Barbara Whitaker, W. I. G.; Henry Whitaker, W. O. G.; G. M. Long, P. W. C. T.; Anthony Whitaker, W. C.; Mrs. Martha Powell, W. R. H. S.; Mrs. E. Long, W. L. H. S.

An Old Landmark Gone.—The old warehouse of Messrs. Couch & Flanders, about midway of their wharf, has been torn down to enable the proprietors to repair the wharf and to build a new and more commodious warehouse. The planking and timbers of the upper story of the wharf are to be removed, to be replaced by new frame and flooring. The warehouse just torn down, was the first erected on any wharf in this city, having been put up in 1853 or 5. Many of the supporting timbers had become much decayed, rendering the use of the wharf and warehouse somewhat unsafe.

Ordered East.—Brevet Major T. J. Eckerson, A. Q. M., U. S. A., at present residing in this city, has received orders dated Aug. 13th, from the Headquarters of the Division of the Pacific, issued in pursuance of a telegraphic order from the Adjutant General of the U. S. Army, to immediately proceed to St. Louis, Missouri, and report for assignment to duty, to Dt. Maj. Gen. James B. Donaldson, Chief Quartermaster of the military district of Missouri. He will leave, with his family, in a few days.

Mr. O'Connor's Condition.—Dr. Chapman informs us that Mr. O'Connor's condition last evening was quite as favorable as could be expected considering the serious nature of his injury. It is of course impossible, as yet, to tell what turn the wound may take, but there is thought to be a fair chance for saving his leg. Amputation would, under the circumstances, be a desperate remedy and will not be resorted to except under absolute necessity.

Died.—Frank Miguel, the man who got shot in the tragedy of Wednesday morning, died at the Union Hotel, a few minutes after twelve o'clock yesterday morning. We learn that he retained his consciousness till almost the moment of breathing his last, and that early in the evening he talked with those about him concerning his property and the disposition he wished made of it. It is understood, that he has a brother somewhere in Wasco county.

In Trouble.—Mr. Patton, who came passenger by the Oriflamme, informs us that Jerry Driscoll, late a well known deck hand on the Senator, recently got into trouble in San Francisco, through raising a rumpus at a Union mass meeting. He was arrested for disorderly conduct and sentenced to fifteen days imprisonment. We have seen references to the to the case in the papers, also.

Water Melons.—Some of the produce dealers received by last steamer, some of the largest water melons we have ever seen since crossing the Rocky Mountains. Mrs. Farg-Aly on Second street has some that are particularly large and fine.

Hotel at Albany.—Mr. Burlingame, architect and builder of this city, is at present engaged on a hotel building for Mr. J. D. Sprenger, at Albany. It is two stories high and larger and handsomer than the one destroyed by fire.

The Oriflamme's Freight.—The steamship Oriflamme, brought up 981 tons of freight There was considerable offered which she was obliged to refuse, on account of bringing a company of U S. soldiers.

Salmon.—The schooner Pursuit, arrived yesterday morning at the O. S. N. Co's wharf with a cargo of salmon, from Chinook and other fisheries on the lower Columbia river.

Recorder's Court.—All the cases, of which there were several pending, in the Recorder's court yesterday morning, were continued till this morning, at the usual hour.

Found.—At Oro Fino Hall after the opera last evening, a lady's fine embroidered handkerchief The owner may call for it at Blumauer & Rosenblatt's.

Willamette Freights.—Arrived per Senator from Oregon City, yesterday 125 bags oats, 63 boxes apples, 60 sacks flour and 2 rolls leather

To Sail.—The steamship Oriflamme will sail for San Francisco, on Saturday the 24th at 7 o'clock P. M.

Treasure Receipt.—By the Cascade boat, last evening Wells, Fargo & Co. received $33,000 in treasure.

Never Behind Time.—Burman Bros received with the steamer Oriflamme the latest styles in Olive Brown Beaver Suits Never has there been such suits in this State Price, $45. Call and see them on corner Front and Morrison streets, Portland

Perfectly Enraptured.—Such were our feelings as we stepped into the Music and Art Gallery of W. T. Shanahan, on First street, a few days since, and listened to the delightful tones and harmony which came from one of Mason & Hamlin's Cabinet Organs. From the soft breathing flute tones to the thundering bass of the pipe organ, all was equally free and sweet. And why is it other makers cannot produce instruments like these? Mason & Hamlin were the first to introduce the Cabinet Organ, and have gained such world-wide notoriety that it requires the work of two large factories to supply the demand for these valuable instruments.

STATE ITEMS.

Wheat in Southern Oregon is said to be a two-third crop.

The river at Albany is within three inches of low water point It is considerable lower than at the corresponding period in 1866

Rev John F Damon has been ordained at Albany by the Congregational Council He will remain pastor of the Church at Albany

Lucien and Ivan Applegate had an encounter with "grizzlies" near the Loll House in Jackson county a few days ago. An old bear and two cubs made up into good family party. They all escaped, though eight shots were fired into the old bear at short range She charged upon her assailants three times before making a final retreat.

The Jacksonville Sentinel has the following "Mr P W Gillette, the traveling agent and correspondent of the Oregonian, called on us this week He is meeting with excellent success, and most cautious to decent, as for the Oregonian has been conducted so to make it a necessity among the business men of the State, without reference to politics. Mr G is enlivening the columns of that paper with truthful, matter of fact descriptions of the country through which he passes, from which all reflections on the political bias of its editorial hand so far seem excluded We wish him success in increasing the circulation of that valuable journal

The Albany Journal of Monday, has the following Yesterday morning a farmer, who resided about nine miles southeast of Albany, on the Lebanon road, named Reuben Hunt, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head After breakfast, he left to visit a neighbor, on his family thought, and until midday no uneasiness was felt because of his absence. His wife called upon some of the neighbors and inquired for him, and as he had not been seen by any one during the day, a search was made, and in a thicket about half a mile from his dwelling, his body was found, with his gun lying by his side, having shot himself through the head No cause of a financial or domestic character existed to disturb his mind, being a prosperous farmer, clear of all indebted ness, and surrounded by a young and interesting family A short time since he joined the Dunkard Church, and seemed much concerned about his future state. On Saturday he mentioned, in conversation, that he believed he had committed the "unpardonable sin" by neglecting to join the church at an earlier period of his life, and on the morning of his death, he spoke to his wife in despairing tones of his religious state His mind was evidently diseased, as for some time past he complained of a pain in one side of his head, and a few days ago he asked a friend to examine if the paining side was not enlarged His record through life was that of one of the best of citizens in every relation, and he is sincerely mourned by a large circle of all parties in the community

A "Journal of Civilization"

The San Francisco Dramatic Chronicle has the following hit. Oregon Copperhead editors will "see it:"

It is not to be thought for a moment that the advantages which California enjoys over her sister States and the world in general, are limited to such mere external matters as the superiority of our climate, soil, mines vines, vines, pines, pumpkins, etc., over those of all the rest of the universe. To entertain so treasonable a notion, would be proof either of moral obduracy, or of mental obliquity. Far be it from any true Californian to permit himself for a moment to make so humiliating an admission, even in thought. He should as firmly maintain that we are as superior to the Eastern States in pools as we are in pumpkins, and that the horizon of California is as much more expanded than that of our Atlantic kinsfolk, as a San Bernardino ranch that would take a hundred miles of fencing to enclose it is bigger than a Massachusetts farm that might be covered with a dozen or two of horse-blankets. The Harpers publish a weekly paper in New York, which they are pleased to call "A Journal of Civilization," and which seems to be generally accepted as such in the East. It is apparently a good enough journal of civilization for them, but it doesn't by any means come up to the Californian, or even the Oregonian standard of what a journal ought to be. In fact, a large portion of the enlightened papers of this coast have lifted up their voices in tones of earnest expostulation and warning, against its degrading and pernicious influence. The Portland Herald, the Amador Dispatch, the Colusa Sun, and, we believe, the San Francisco Examiner, have spoken in very strong terms of the demoralising influence of the weekly referred to. Some of these have even felt it their duty to bear testimony for the truth, in terms so harsh as to seem scarcely excusable, except upon the ground of the solicitude for the preservation of our own superior civilization from the effects of corrupting influences from the East, by which they were prompted. We cannot at present recall the precise language in which the obnoxious weekly has been denounced, but it was such as was calculated to convey the impression that it was a most demoralising and disgusting sheet, engaged in disseminating the most poisonous falsehoods, in a spirit of fiendish malignity. In evidence of the high moral tone, and unimpeachable taste of the censors and critics who have been most severe upon this bogus "Journal of Civilization," we may may mention the circumstance, that all the denunciations referred to, that have fallen under our observation, have occurred in papers that are in the constant habit of quoting that refined, candid, and eminently Christian writer—"Brick Pomeroy." Those who have made a study of the productions of this great author, and who are familiar with their spirit, sentiment and style, will require no other proof than is furnished by this circumstance. Such is the best "Journal of Civilization" they are capable of getting up at the East; how much better California can do, and has done we shall show on another occasion, when we shall call the attention of the world to a specimen of a genuine Pacific Coast "Journal of Civilization," such as the illustrious "Brick," and all his devout admirers would heartily approve of.

Governor of Idaho.—The Boise Statesman denies that Isaac L. Gibbs is really Governor of Idaho, and explains how the report of his appointment arose:

The story all told is as follows: The Senate was about to adjourn. The nomination of Gibbs was sent in together with strong letters of recommendation from the State and Indian Departments, stating in substance that Governor Ballard was not recognized as Governor; that therefore money could not be sent to Idaho to quiet the Indians, etc., etc. There being no one in the Senate from the Pacific coast to contradict these statements, Gibbs was confirmed as a matter of course. But there were some men from Idaho there besides Holbrook and Street, and Senators were immediately posted as to what they had done. Within ten minutes of the time for the final adjournment of the session the Senate recalled the name of Gibbs, which had been sent to the Executive Department reconsidered the vote by which he was confirmed, laid him on the table, and immediately adjourned till next November.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

Travelers are always liable to sudden attacks of dysentery and cholera morbus, and these occurring when absent from home are very unpleasant. PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER may always be relied upon in such cases. As soon as you feel the symptoms, take one teaspoonful in a gill of new milk and it relieves, and a gill of hot water Hot well together and drink hot. Repeat the dose every hour until relieved If the pains be severe, bathe the bowels and back with the medicine, clear

Bilberian, so often exposed to hurts by having their skin pierced with hooks and fins of fish, can be much relieved by bathing with a little Pain Killer as soon as the accident occurs; in this way the anguish is soon abated; bathe as often as once in five minutes, say three or four times, and you will seldom have any trouble Sold by druggists everywhere

The Fortieth Congress.

[Correspondence of the New York Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The old Representative Hall is now a receptacle for miscellaneous statuary. Washington, Kosciuska, Lincoln, Calfax, Tecumseh, in sandstone and marble, plaster and bronze, stare at the wondering visitor. The chamber, modeled upon a Grecian theatre, is half circular, 100 feet long, 65 high to the top of the bowl-like dome, surrounded by 26 columns of dark Potomac marble, with a strip of gallery behind them barely large enough for 200 visitors.

Gone are the hospitable stone fire-places at the south end. Darkened are those pleasant windows where the fresh Potomac breeze flowed in. The old halls were far better ventilated than the new, which are inferior on all sides, and look out of doors only through the roof. The ancient hair-cloth chairs are here. The old stone eagle is still taking flight from the wall. It is better than most sculpture about the Capitol, but just after it was put up, fifty years ago, some newspaper critic likened it to a hawk nailed to a barn door. What artist could ever hear the revilling of his offspring? The young Italian who chiseled it drowned himself in the Potomac.

The ancient lobbies and staircases we should call very narrow even for a private house. Here (now a Post Office) is the old room of the Speaker, where John Quincy Adams was brought to die. It is plain and narrow as a hermit's cell. Now we give the very doorkeeper an office with the dimensions of a lecture hall and the upholstery of a palace. Opposite, in a little room then used for the mails, Abraham Lincoln, Representative from Illinois, delighted to sit, telling stories, with feet over the fire-place while the member from Buncombe was making his speech. In those days nobody listened to Congressional bores. The whole story below this was cut into committee rooms, each with its plain walls, brick-paved passages and comfortable fire-places. There members wrote and talked while the orator above addressed empty benches, content to know that the speech would be printed for his constituents. When a vote was to be taken, the Speaker's page touched a brass knob; "tinkle," "tinkle," sounded a dozen bells through the long passages, and members came trooping up the narrow stairs to record their names. Gas there was not. Night sessions were illuminated by oil lamps from reflectors and chandeliers.

Here sat our grandfathers in knee-breeches, silk stockings, silvered shoe buckles and powdered hair. Here for twelve years, from the Speaker's chair, Henry Clay announced decisions in his rich modulated voice, and emphasized them with his long, waving arm. Here, in the presence of the Invested Senate, half a century after the Revolution he welcomed the aged Lafayette in the name of the American people, already great, prosperous and happy. It was a rare pageant. "Sir," said the young orator to the illustrious guest, "you stand in the midst of prosperity!" The same man now in the midst of poverty! The same Congress voted to Lafayette 24,000 acres of public land and $200,000. In the new hall his full length portrait, by Vanderlyn, stands on the Speaker's left, corresponding with Peal's Washington on the right.

Here for sixteen years, sat John Randolph, with great dark eyes, smooth brown hair, parting in the middle, girlish forehead, gaunt form, shrill voice and long, eloquent forefinger,—full of bitter speeches and full of bearing a life-long hunger in his heart. Here came the aged Benton, after thirty continuous years in the Senate; Corwin and Crittenden and others in the higher chamber; and John Quincy Adams for nine terms, after he had occupied the White House. When a refractory clerk kept the House disorganized for four days, by refusing to call the New Jersey delegation, in one indignant speech the "old man eloquent" carried all members with him, thundering "I propose to put the question myself," brought order out of chaos.

Here, for long years, facing every obloquy and danger, he fought for the right of petition; and at last the House prepared to censure him, simply, formally, demanded that the Clerk should read the Declaration of Independence for his defense. Here, in his last years, members used to throng about that bald head to listen for every word of that trumpet organ tone, and once, when he entered, after illness the whole House stood up as one man to greet him. Here, finally at eighty-eight, just by that figure of the dying Tecumseh, he rose to address the chair, staggered, fell, gasped out, "This is the end of earth—I am content"—and then, like Nisus, lay dead in his harness. For him this chapel was all draped in sable, save the name of history still glowed so gracefully over the door, with the fair face for her chariot wheel, and the mourning pen in her hand. She stood, looking down upon the stilled face, white as her own marble around it, that honored form was carried out.

Here for twenty one years Giddings—large, dark-skinned, with coarse hair and scowling brow—fought that slave could hold property in man. His constituents sent him back, and kept him here till his strong voice made itself audible. He lived to see the proclamation of freedom signed, and his the only one of a recent American—now in the rotunda.

Here Kansas-Nebraska battle was fought. Here, against the tolling bells, and flags at half mast throughout the North, when the bill was passed, 17 Southerners bitterly characterized Kansas as all about an Ideal Territory for a Negro. But popular instinct already felt the air heavy with coming battle. It was, too, after a nine-weeks' struggle, Aiken, of South Carolina, conducted Banks, of Massachusetts, to the Speaker's chair. It was the first victory of the North won.

Going from the old Hall to the new is like passing from a Quaker meeting house to a shrine in the Black Creek Indians beyond dispute, but gaudy with gilt and bronze, fresco and stained glass, marble and mosaic. The Goddess of Liberty has a fair enough face, her robes of state and crown jewels; but she is not a ballet girl to be spangle with brass nor red as Arapahoe squaw, that would stain her cheeks with vermillion.

The new Hall has its memories. Here the long Lecompton battle was fought and won. Here, in 1858, when Keitt threatened to dissolve the Union Burlingame answered, pointing his finger at the Carolinian's sallow face, and lifting his voice till bronzed roof and niched walls rang with the clamor. It would not be right to do it; it would not be honest to do it; it would not be safe to do it." Keitt fell on a Southern battle field. A statue in yonder Congressional Cemetery commemorates Brooks.

Here were the old, barbaric encounters—when Keitt sprang at Grow, and the Pennsylvanian knocked him down; when Barksdale lost his wig, when a startled reporter, seeing a rough-and-tumble fight below, dropped his huge bowie-knife on the floor, sprang over the railing to "go in" and being there suspended by his coat-skirts from the press gallery till his restraining brethren drew him back. Here, after the John Brown raid, was the long contest about the Helper book, in which so many Republicans who had endorsed it ate humble pie, but Owen Lovejoy, in fierce, fiery speech from the Clerk's desk, said to the slave propagandists: "You murdered my brother in Alton twenty-five years ago, because you dared not hear him—now you shall hear me."

The present Representatives—the mob of gentlemen who rank with ease sit, chiefly in national black but a few in white linen, for three or four hours daily. Some limp from rebel bullets. Some see their political hopes blasted, bear in sad faces the marks of deeper wounds. One, under a great domestic grief, went into hermitage for twenty years, and has again come back to the busy scene. While most members are speaking, the rest write, talk, read newspapers, or clap their hands to call pages for letters and messages. A man who can debate in such a pandemonium must possess great self-control. But there are half a dozen whom the House hears with close attention.

Thaddeus Stevens is the first. Now at seventy-four, his weak voice is almost inaudible to the reporters. The instant he rises all sounds are hushed; all distant members crowd around his desk, with heads bent forward to catch every word from his trembling lips. Intellectually, his speeches are the best in the House; clear, compact, direct, logical; but his power does not lie wholly in this; nor yet in his sagacity, for he is out-voted half the time; nor in his wisdom, for he makes preposterous statements, like his late assertion that the country is almost unanimous for immediate impeachment. What is the spell of this worn, wiryless, childless old man, with his intense Puritan face, hollow cheeks, deep set eyes and black wig, who totters along the aisles with cane and deformed foot. It is his steadfast sincerity and devotion to principle. He is the same who, thirty years ago, in the Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention, advocated impartial suffrage; and who flung up his title to lots in a cemetery because, even there, at the portal of the next world, a black man's dust was not admitted. Thaddeus Stevens believes in something, and announce of conviction outweighs a ton of sagacity. Dawes insists that a translation of his confiscation speech was found among the papers of Juarez after the death of Maximilian! But at this session he has expressed few extreme views. And his declaration on the floor that he feared to go near our modern, false philanthropy, lest he should catch it himself, was exquisite.

Boutwell of Massachusetts—tall, slender, with large eyes and black beard just frosting with age—is the most impressive speaker. Everybody listens to him. Shellabarger, of Ohio always commands attention for his eminent ability. John A. Bingham—with scowling brow and silvering hair, thinly plastered over crown and forehead, and fringe of grey whiskers around his lower face—when he rises in suit of gray, holds the House, but through earnestness and magnetic force as well as intellectual power. His colleague, General Schenck—stout, thick-set, with plump, compressed German face and heavy auburn hair and moustache, is a model of parliamentary speech. He never declaims, talks right to the point; is not the victim of rhetoric, and can go into a long parenthesis, come out and resume the main thread exactly where he dropped it. Few extempore speakers can do that; parenthesis has slain its thousands.

Wilson of Iowa, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, talks little, but earnestly, forcibly, commandingly. Kelly of Pennsylvania, tall, slender, with narrow brow half hidden by hair, is deep voiced, dramatic, speaks with dexterous finger pointing at the Speaker and quivering to his cadences. He delights to quench a democratic orator with a question, or extinguish him with a fact. Garfield of Ohio—large browed, of generous culture and good presence, holds the House well. Banks, perhaps the ablest man on the whole floor, has not opened his lips this session. Hayes of Ohio, about to be elected Governor, has been here three years without making a speech, though he has few superiors, or, indeed, equals. Rare shining examples! Butler of Massachusetts, restless, bold, always hither and thither, now speaks but little. John A. Logan of Illinois, slender, lithe, small, with coal black hair, long, jet moustache and tawny face, has a voice like a sledge-hammer and roars like a boiler factory. He is the same gentleman who lately announced on the floor that if he had captured Jefferson Davis he would have murdered him, and who, eight years ago in the same hall, proclaimed his eagerness to hunt and return runaway negroes.

The Democratic side is weak, in numbers and quality. James Brooks of New York is the most noticeable. He is fifty-seven, of fine presence, ample forehead, long, iron-gray hair, and shrill voice. He is the Jeremiah of the Capitol. Every session he hammers on his chest, declares that we are in the midst of a revolution, and that opposing this measure is the proudest act of his life, and goes through history with a horse rake, from Marathon to Magna Charta. But, despite this turgid illustration, he is effective and able.

Fernando Wood—two years his junior—is slender, erect, graceful, with small head, Grecian face, and short, heavy, snowy mustache. His speeches are direct, compact and logical, but cold as marble. Brooks declaims, Wood reasons, one is rhetorical, the other incisive; one a gong, his colleague a bugle. The other day, with a curl of the lip, Wood observed, "Mr. Speaker, in my judgment, the President of the United States is a little more meek and docile than the public interests require!" Again, in a fair hit, he urged the Republicans to pass no bill curtailing the judicial power of their eminent jurist and illustrious soldier, General Dick Busteed. He indulged in a little bitterness; the South had erred grievously, but grievously had she answered it; now the wounds should be healed, and these vacant seats filled again. Robinson of Brooklyn, with curling locks and scotch-Irish face, has made but one set speech, extravagant, violent, witty, with rambling to every topic under the sun. At last, having said all the irrelevent things he desired, after being called to order for the dozenth time by the good-humored House, he perpetrated a pun which set benches and galleries in a roar: "Mr. Speaker, you rule me out of order, I acquiesce, and will go on!"

Massachusetts has the ablest delegation. Ohio the next. New York and Pennsylvania vie with each other in weakness. Thomas of Maryland is the senior member; he first came to the House in 1831, while one or two elders still wore the knee-breeches and cocked hats. Schuyler Colfax is oldest in continuous service. He entered in 1854, and has missed no session since. No abler presiding officer ever sat in the chair of the House. He carries forward business with wonderful rapidity; decides intricate questions on the instant; is never perplexed and never overruled. Now, many voices name him for the Presidency. It is noticeable, as showing whither power is turning, that though Illinois supplied the candidate for the last two terms, every man spoken of for the highest office—Chase, Colfax, Wade, Grant, Sheridan—comes from the West.

Thomas Jefferson's Manual is still the basis of all our parliamentary rules; though the present Committee, Colfax, Banks and Washburn, have introduced material modifications. All the changes tend to expedite business, to limit the power of a minority in obstructing the majority. Now, on Mondays, and on the last ten days of a session, "filibustering" is practically impossible. Any decision of a Speaker, appealed from by a member and sustained by the House, becomes parliamentary law, unless it was obviously a political "dodge." A case of the latter was on the Kansas-Nebraska Act. The Committee of the Whole had the bill. On motion of Alexander H. Stephens, leader of the Democracy, the Committee reported it back to the House with its enacting clause stricken out. The House voted to nonconcur with the report. The Chair decided that this brought the bill again, immediately up in its original form, with every amendment offered in the Committee cut off. A strict party majority sustained this ruling, and thus the Act passed under the previous question. But as a parliamentary precedent that ruling has always been held null and void.

On the Senate, little is to be said. Here, with no check to debate, no previous question, the stream of rhetoric is perennial. I heard the Senate talk five hours last week on the questions whether the caucus decision not to consider anything but reconstruction was binding upon Republicans, and if not, whether the Indian troubles required legislation. An equal convocation of bank directors, railway managers, or merchants, would have settled both points in twenty minutes.

Wade, of Ohio, who has been here seventeen years, exerts by far the most influence. He is simple, direct, logical, and carries great weight through his abounding humanity and his spotless integrity. Trumbull, of Illinois, compact, clear, incisive, enforces attention. Henry Wilson is earnest, indefatigable, always at the laboring oar, true as steel to the good cause, is one of the most useful members. Old Massachusetts, with all of her illustrious names, has had few sons who have done her more credit than the unpretending Natick Senator. Sumner and Fessenden, always able, are both stronger in minority than with a majority. Drake, of Missouri, is a logician and talkative. Yates, of Illinois, and Nye, of Nevada, are boundless rhetoricians.

On the Democratic side, Hendricks, of Indiana, an able lawyer and a strong speaker, is acknowledged leader. Reverdy Johnson, of Maryland, a walking legal cyclopedia, is listened to with attention, and appears in some doubt about his own political status.

The Congressional advocates of impeachment are strong in brains but weak in numbers. Confiscation has very few friends. I have heard but one member on the floor advocate the hanging of Jeff. Davis and his Cabinet as traitors. All Republicans favor the investigation which has been ordered, to ascertain exactly how far the rebel President and his advisers are responsible for the starvation of Union prisoners. If the Committee of General Shanks does its duty, it will settle that question forever. The sentiment applauding Juarez for the execution of Maximilian, though in the minority, is very strong. It rests, not on any love for capital punishment, but on belief that the late Prince atrociously violated the well settled laws of war by his own bloody instructions, which finally returned to plague the inventor, and on the knowledge that France and Austria took advantage of our sore national distress to offer us a deadly national insult.

The House, though not equal to its predecessor in the Thirty-ninth Congress, has many able men and, as usual, is much the more interesting branch to a visitor, because it is the working body—the arena of debate. Still, it lacks the one great element of excitement, a strong belligerent minority. The Senate is indisputably a weak body. By-and-by, when we rise to larger tolerance in non-essentials, and States grow proud of their strong, independent thinkers, perhaps pliant mediocrity may be displaced at the Capital by our Ralph Waldo Emersons, and Henry Ward Beechers, and Robert Collyers.

RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT!

THE MOST REMARKABLE DISCOVERY EVER MADE!

Will Cure All Pains in a Few Minutes!

Read the Certificates!

RHEUMATISM CURED!

PORTLAND, August 10th, 1867.

I HAVE SUFFERED A LONG TIME WITH RHEUMATIC Pains, and until now have found nothing to relieve me. To day Mr J. G. Rennick called at my store and assured me that he could cure me in a few minutes. I thought he was mistaken, and laughed at him, but found to my surprise that a few moments after the application of the SITKA LINIMENT, I was relieved of my pains, and I am now improving very fast. I now believe it will cure me in a few days For further information call at my store, No. 182 First street.

F. WEGNER.

SPRAINED WRIST CURED.

PORTLAND, August 10, 1867.

I was at Mr Wegner's store on Saturday, August 10th, and seeing the magic effect of J G RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, in his case, concluded to try it, on my wrist which has been sprained for some time I found relief inside of FIVE MINUTES from its application, and it is now perfectly well My wrist was so swelled I could not shut my fingers. I believe it will cure any pain in a short time I will give any further particulars to whoever calls on me

Tumor Removed!

PORTLAND, August 10th, 1867.

I HAVE USED RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT for pain and swelling of the gum and cheek. I had a large tumor forming on the gum which arose from killing the nerve in my tooth and caused me a dreadful pain which prevented me from sleep for several nights. I applied the Liniment, and to my surprise, it removed the lump and eased the pain so that it is now as well as the other cheek. My cheek was fearfully swollen. This was done in the presence of two witnesses.

I. MITCHELL.

I was present and know the above to be true, and am willing to swear to it L. QUIVEY.

PORTLAND, August 12th, 1867.

For five years I have suffered with a pain or weakness in my back, which at times was dreadful I often thought I could not bear such torment But I got a bottle of RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, and with one rub it perfectly cured me I can recommend it to any lady suffering from pains in any way, for I am convinced it will at once remove them. DORR COHN,
Corner of Fourth and Taylor streets.

Any person who does not believe this can call, and I will convince them.

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE,"

J. H. UPTON & A. NOLTNER, Proprietors.

ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title, will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics, News, and the development of the varied resources of the State. In politics the CHRONICLE will be unflinchingly Democratic, supporting and advocating all those reforms in National and State policy, so urgently demanded at the present time by every consideration involving the weal of the American people. The necessity for a Democratic organ firmly planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State. Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE, and with the State thoroughly Democratic to-day, with all prospective changes in favor of that party, there is no valid reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics, the News of the day, the Agricultural Mining, Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention A twenty-eight column paper, 20x28 inches in size, will furnish ample space and enable us to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved. We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of.

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE.

Terms of Subscription:

Single copy, one year.....$3 00
Five copies, one year.....13 75
Ten copies, one year.....25 00

And for any greater number, one year, at the rate of $2 50 each.
